ATMOSPHERE & LOCATION

The China Club Berlin at the Adlon Palais provided an exceptional private setting for an evening of strategic dialogue. Surrounded by art, elegance and an atmosphere of discretion, the participants exchanged entrepreneurial experiences, discussed common ambitions and explored opportunities to strengthen their international business relationships.

IMPRESSION TEXT

What began as a private meeting of entrepreneurs became something more meaningful. Beyond individual business interests, the conversations revealed a shared belief in the value of trusted relationships, complementary strengths and international cooperation. It was during these exchanges that the first ideas for a broader, more personal and internationally connected community emerged.

An early step towards what would become KYVOR.
